

UNTIE THE KNOTS WALPURGIS NIGHT

Ancestral Healing Ritual – Walpurgis Night

Long before Christianity gave it the name Walpurgis Night, people gathered on the night of April 30 to May 1 to celebrate the transition between winter and summer, darkness and light, death and rebirth.

It was a time when the veils between worlds grew thin, and the living could reach across to the realm of the ancestors. Today, we honor this ancient portal by using its transformative energy to connect with our lineage, untie the knots that bind us, and restore the flow of life through our ancestral web.

The Ritual of Transition

Walpurgis Night is the ritual of passage — a sacred space where the dark reveals itself to be transformed.

It is the night of liberating powers, where the suppressed begins to dance, and the light of new beginnings emerges.

We will enter into altered states of consciousness to open the bridge between worlds, inviting our ancestors to guide us as we release inherited pain, trauma, tragedies and unfinished stories. Through movement, breath, and embodied ritual, we reclaim what was lost and weave our power back into the living web of life.

The Feminine

embodies intuition, emotion, body, and receptivity. She holds the wisdom of the Earth — the darkness that gives birth to life, the wild force that whispers: You are alive.

The Masculine

offers consciousness, structure, and action. He is the fire that protects and transforms, the clarity that gives form without binding.

In this workshop, both polarities dance together — moon and sun, earth and fire, yin and yang — not as opposites, but as loving complementary forces that awaken and complete one another. When they unite, healing happens, and the web of life begins to breathe again.

Walpurgis Night: A Ritual of Liberation

A time to remember the sacred balance of giving and receiving, to honor those who came before us, and to reclaim the creative life force that flows through every generation.

Together, we will celebrate what we are: instinctive – feeling – awake – connected.
